

Tabletop Exercises

K logix's Tabletop Exercises simulate a scenario that comprehensively tests an organizations processes and controls. The result is identifying where potential gaps in process or maturity exist to better understand impactful ways to protect an organization. After results are confirmed, our experts walk through the process, where gaps were identified, and their recommendations.

The K logix consulting team interviews several key stakeholders and reviews all existing incident response policy or procedures. Based on this, a scenario is developed with the intention to push the organization to think creatively and critically about their current preparedness. K logix consultants will then facilitate the scenario with executives, business leaders, IT or other relevant audiences. After the exercise is complete, K logix provides an executive summary that identifies areas of improvement.

BENEFITS:

- Simulation of real-world incidents in a safe environment to identify gaps before bad actors find them
- Facilitation by experts to ensure civil and appropriate exploration of the scenario
- Detailed review and thoughtfully planned scenario ensures organizations of any size will learn something from this exercise
